Chairman's Chat

Autumn is on its way, so it's time for our thoughts to turn towards the ACCEO National Rally and AGM at the beginning of October at the Staffordshire County Showground. This will be our third year at the showground and the rally has grown into a fantastic event with 2 nights live entertainment and a vintage bus ride into town for those who wish to leave their vehicles behind and explore in a more leisured manner. Come along and join in the fun, all members are welcome, and we look forward to seeing you there.

And to all of you who are going to the NEC later in October please call in at the ACCEO lounge for a cuppa and a natter. We are always pleased to see you and catch up with your news.

Chris Lowery

Webmaster

Friends, as we draw toward the end of another ACCEO year I do hope that you've been able to enjoy a good season, especially that bit of summer which has almost slipped from our memories!

As your Webmaster I have had a quiet year keeping everything running, unless there's something you haven't told me about of course. The winter since some of us last met is best forgotten. There are now 109 club officers and members holding access to our private pages on the website on which I hope you can find what you need.

Now comes the nag. I must remind you that I gave notice at the last AGM that I intend to step back from the frontline work of this important strand of our Publicity Department. A year has now passed and no one has shown any interest in taking it on yet. This is an important role and although will require some time to take over the essentials of the administration and maintenance it is not a time consuming role, especially if you have some 'computer literacy'. It is vital to ACCEO and its Member Clubs that someone steps forward to keep this increasingly important tool of management and communication going. But the job can't be handed over in an envelope! Take the opportunity to have me work along side you as you take it on.

Part of the website information is the list and some information about our Member Clubs and there will be an opportunity to check the information which we display both on the website and at exhibitions at our National Rally.

As Companions Chairman I guess I will have nothing to report when we meet soon at the AGM but nevertheless, I look forward to catching up. Perhaps one or two of you might like to organise a rally somewhere!

I look forward to meeting up with you all when we gather at Stafford.

John Wilton

National Rally Coordinator's Update

ACCEO National Rally, Staffordshire County Showground, Weston Road, Stafford
ST18 0BD

Wednesday 4th - Monday 9th October 2017

Everything is now in place for another great weekend at Stafford County Showground for this year's National Rally. The Touring Caravan Club have a committee in place to run it and it is full speed ahead on planning the weekend and organising the Charity Raffle. As well as the normal accessories this year we have managed to secure a folding bike as one of the main prizes.

For your entertainment over the weekend we will have Letitia George who made it through to the live rounds of UK's The Voice; also Wayne Swift a Multiple Tribute act, singing Michael Bublé, Robbie Williams, The Rat Pat plus many more hits from the 60's through to the 00's. We will be entertaining you on the other nights as well and the bus service to Stafford has been arranged again.

We have held the costs to the same as last year: £30.00 for the main weekend per unit, £10 per additional night (Wed, Thurs, Sun) and the entertainment is £10 per person which includes both nights, with children accompanying a paying adult going free. I am looking forward to meeting you all there again this year.

ACCEO National Rally, Ukrainian Youth Centre, Weston on Trent, Derby DE72 2BU
Wednesday 3rd – Monday 8th October 2018

We have now secured the Ukrainian Youth Centre in Weston on Trent for our National Rally, 2018. We are still looking for a Member Club to host it on ACCEO's behalf, and it has been proved you do not need to be a big Club to do this. You will get all the assistance you need, whenever you need it.

If you fancy having a go, please contact me as soon as possible on 07831 231643. I will explain all you need to know, but basically we are looking to you to act as the Rally Marshals (eg. run the rally field, see the vans in, organise the teas and coffees, etc) and to run the raffle. ACCEO take the bookings and pass them on as well as taking care of the expenses, so no onus is on the Member Club. Give it a try!

Insurance Matters

I'm pleased to report that the club public liability insurance scheme is still very well received by our members, most of whom use it. The few clubs who don't belong to this scheme might like to compare the advantageous terms that Grove offer when next they renew. Should you not have any public liability insurance in place at all, we would strongly recommend you contact us to discuss this as running a club without it puts you at significant personal risk.

Insurance renewals are due on the 1st December this year so look out for emails from Grove Insurance in November and remember to keep us informed should your club contact change, especially as the AGM season will soon be upon us when changes of officers can happen.

Just a reminder that Grove Insurance also offer personal insurance such as car, home, caravan and motorhome insurance. Should one of your members arrange an insurance policy with them and they tell Grove what club they belong to, the club gets £5.00 from Grove, so it is worth reminding your members of this benefit.

Note from the Editor

Thank you to the anonymous member that took the trouble to proof read AM92 after it had been published. I would have liked the chance to thank you personally but sadly you didn't feel able to let the ACCEO Committee know who you were!

I would also like to explain why some of the spacing wasn't correct: when you PDF a file occasionally it doesn't take account of the spacing. This happened with the AGM minutes and the National Rally Poster.

The other errors have sadly been missed by myself and the two very experienced proof readers ACCEO have. We are always looking for people to join the committee, maybe you would like to become a committee member on ACCEO and have a more positive input as a recognised proof reader!

EXHIBITIONS AND EVENTS

Prize Draw - October 2016 ACCEO National Rally and AGM

In October 2011 we were lucky enough to win tickets that had been donated by West Somerset Railway for the Charity Prize Draw at the National Rally and AGM. We took a train journey in July 2012 and really enjoyed it.

Every year since, we have always wanted to win the train tickets that have continued to be kindly donated by West Somerset Railway. Well, last October we had to leave the rally early on Sunday morning and didn't attend flag. We left our Prize Draw tickets with some friends. The next time we met up with these friends we were delighted to be presented with two adult complimentary Day Rover Tickets.

In June, we decided this time to stay in Devon at a CL we had visited several times before. It was a little way to travel to Minehead but as we were staying for the week it wasn't really an issue.

This time because of the distance we had to travel we had to be more rigid about the day we were going to use the tickets. We decided not to take a picnic this time. When we arrived at Minehead, the station was a lot busier than we had expected it to be as it wasn't the school holidays.

EXHIBITIONS AND EVENTS

Once again the tickets we had won allowed us to hop off and on the train at different stops but due to the timetable, we decided to stay on the train to the end stop, Bishop Lydeard. The train wound its way through the beautiful West Somerset Countryside, the journey taking approximately 45 minutes. We had a wander round Bishop Lydeard visiting the Water Mill Museum and the tea rooms attached. We had afternoon tea at the tea rooms, sadly if we had to have a negative, there really wasn't a lot of choice to eat in Bishop Lydeard, so we would suggest you take a picnic.

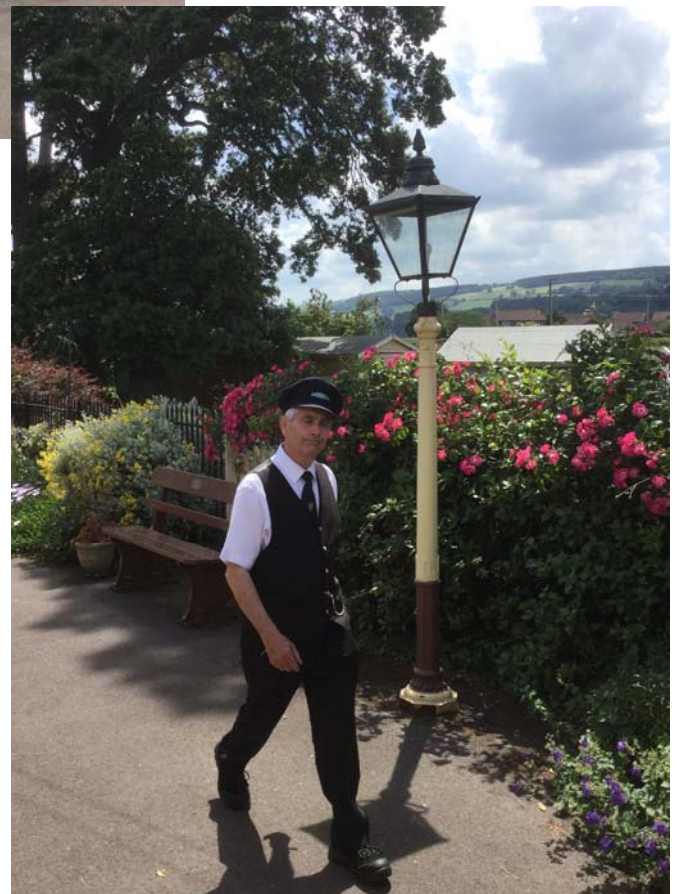

was very interesting with lots of historical railway memorabilia, well worth a visit! The station was very tidy and pretty with a lovely floral design commemorating the Queen. The journey back was a little disruptive due to sheep on the line, apparently they had been a problem all day.

A great prize draw win, thanks to West Somerset Railway for their generous donation, and again, we had a very enjoyable day. Keep up the good work!

Sink Blockages

Sink waste pipe problems can be a pain at home, but doubly so in a caravan. Pipes delivering caravan waste water, or 'grey water', are made to a corrugated, or riffled design. This is because riffled tubes are very flexible and can easily be bent into tight curve shapes without kinking. Curves are necessary to reach locations that may need to trace around obstructions, but the corrugations offer traps for any solid particles that travel within the waste water. Another advantage of corrugated tubing is that being flexible, it is most unlikely to be damaged by vibration, and caravans do undergo plenty of vibration.

The first lesson to avoid drainage problems must, therefore, be to ensure that little or no solid particles are allowed to go down the sink waste outlet. This means care with washing up and thoroughly clearing plates before putting them into the sink water.

Ideally, a small square of fine metal gauze could stop this, but such gauze is not easy to come across, although an equivalent chromed metal disc with perforations is to be found in kitchen item outlets.

Even with care, a fatty coating soon builds up on the inside of waste pipes and dries out after use. The long delay until the next coating produces a concreted layer and eventually a blockage occurs.

There are several options to cure blockages. The first method is to employ a chemical drain cleaner, probably alkaline, like washing soda. The non-chemical solution is to use a flexible rod, like curtain wire, with a screw eye hook in the end. This usually clears most blockages if it is gently rotated whilst being steadily pushed down the pipe. If the wire goes all through the length of the waste pipe, it is pretty certain that the problem has been solved. A kettle full of boiling water should follow, to rinse out the inside of the pipe.

If this problem has occurred in your caravan in the past, it is probably worth keeping a length of curtain wire coiled up, in the front locker.

In extreme cases, if the wire treatment does not clear an obstruction, the whole waste pipe must be removed and a rigid rod used, but with care, this will never be necessary.

As always in such matters, prevention is better than cure.

Unit Safety Spacing

RALLY STEWARDS' GUIDE TO SAFETY SPACING OF UNITS

A minimum space of six metres in any direction between units (including any form of awning) must be maintained, both as a fire break and as a clear access route for emergency vehicles to any unit on site. Units should ideally be staggered in relation to those in the next line and all units in a line should face in the same direction to facilitate rapid and unconfused removal in an emergency situation. Stewards should consider the risk of fire being propagated between units as a result of the close proximity of units to a combustible fixed structure on the site. A minimum space of six metres must be left between any unit and any fixed structure considered to be of combustible nature. In building construction; concrete, brick and structural steel are noncombustible and wood is combustible. If in doubt leave a six metre space or consult a fire prevention professional for advice.

The Natural England guide says not less than three metres should be permitted between units. For this purpose, a unit includes the caravan/tent plus any awning, gazebo or "pup" tent and the tow car (which should be parked on the "blind side" of the unit and can normally be quickly moved in the case of an emergency).

Many stewards equip themselves with a six metre length of rope with which to simply measure off from the wall of the last sited unit (or awning if erected) to the required position of the wall of the next arrival. Alternatively, it is sometimes possible to mark pitches out in advance and in such cases – provided that all units are uniformly sited on the marker (e.g front right corner) and using average caravan (2.4m) and awning (2.5m) specifications – 8.4 metres is required between pitch markers, or 10.9 metres allowing for an awning to be erected. Should you wish to site the units in a "herringbone" formation, this equates to approximately 8.8m or 11.6m respectively. Of course, unless specifications and intentions are declared on the rally booking slips, it is not always possible to know what size or types of unit are to be expected or who will be erecting awnings so, in the absence of this information and provided the size of the rally field permits, it is advantageous to pre-mark out the pitches under the assumption that every unit will be of maximum size and with an awning attached.

Tents of course come in many diverse shapes and sizes so these must be given particular consideration, especially if marking out the pitches in advance. They must be sited separately from caravans & motorhomes although that does not necessarily mean segregated. If the layout of the field does not allow for separate lines of tents it is permissible to continue a line of caravans/motorhomes with a line of tents but they must be sited en bloc and not be interspersed. Trailer tents are classified as tents and must be sited accordingly.

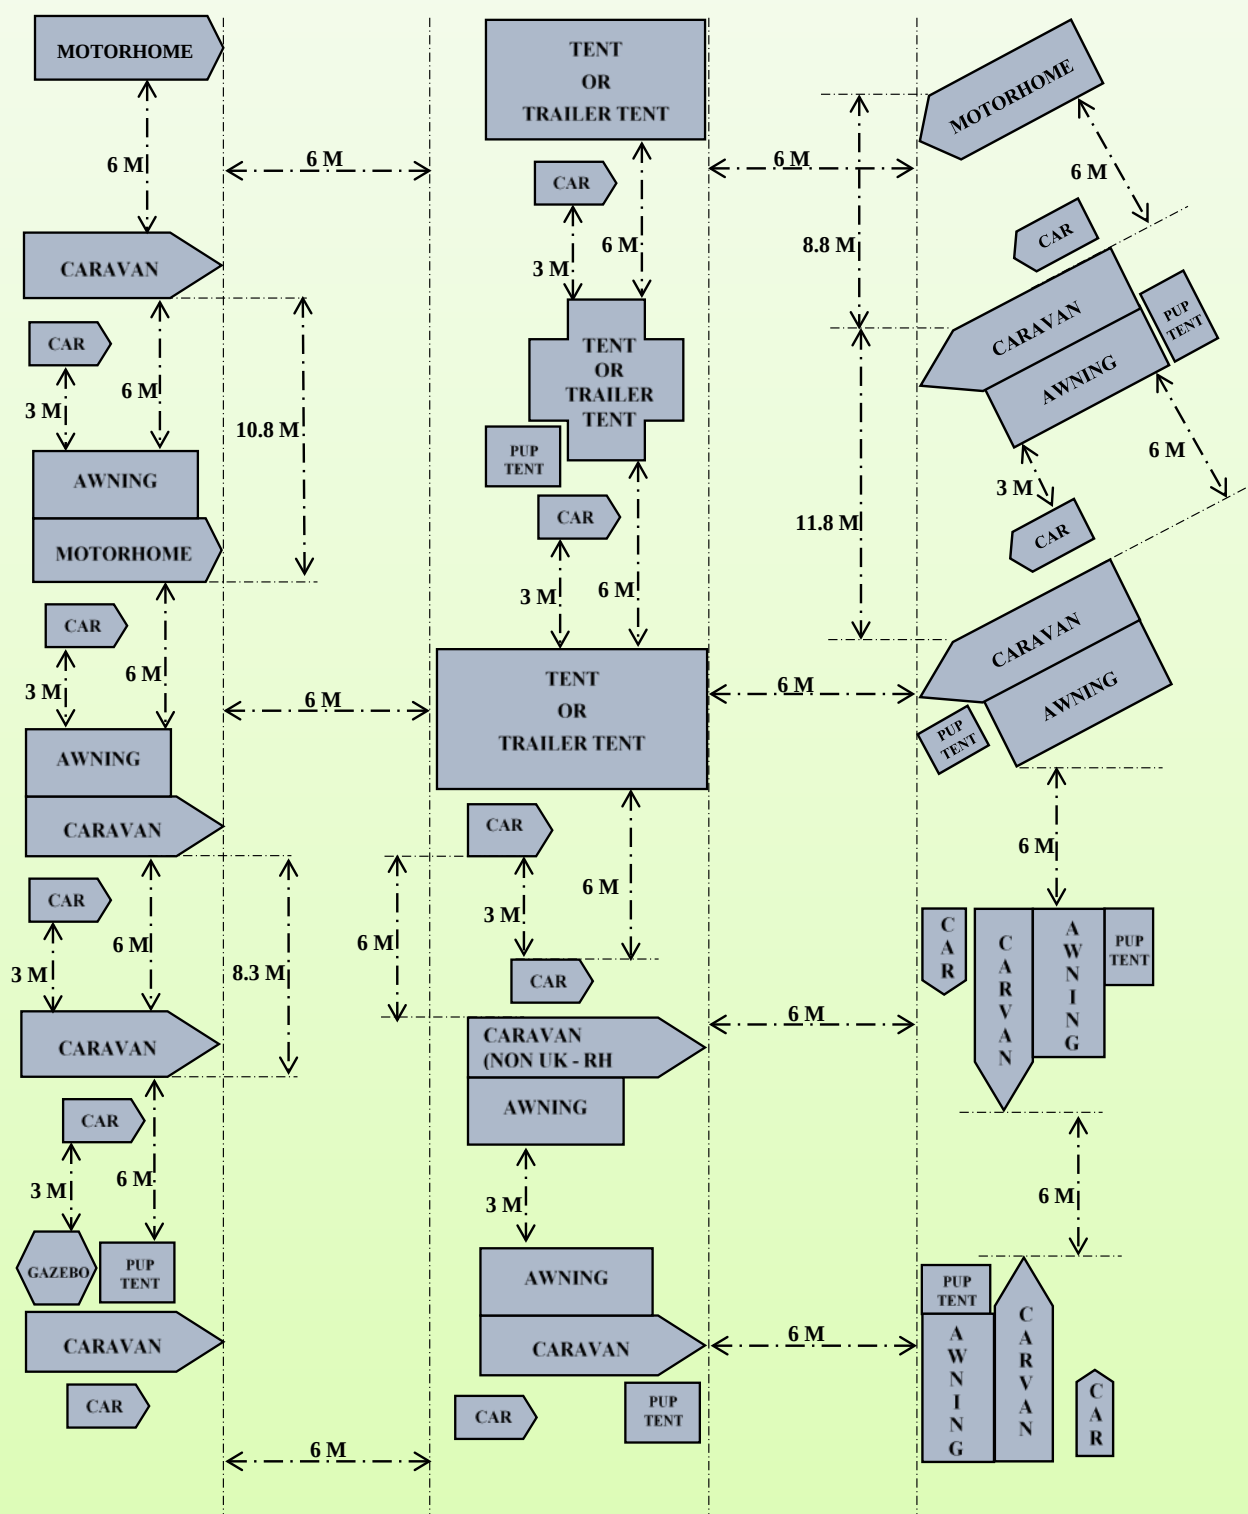

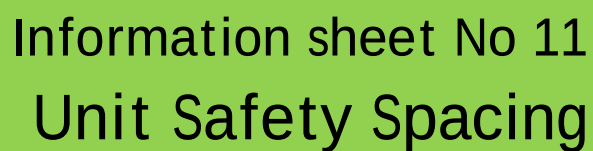

Children's "pup" tents may be erected alongside the parents' unit and should be considered as part of the unit for spacing purposes.

Please Note

In order to permit the attendance of tents & trailer tents (with the exception of children's "pup" tents) on caravan rallies a Camping Exemption Certificate, issued by Natural England under section 269 of the Public Health Act 1936, must be held in conjunction with the Caravan Exemption Certificate.

The diagram shown overleaf is intended only as an example to illustrate the safety spacing required in any possible scenario.

For more information on tents on caravan rallies and Camping Certificates, please see:-
